DAILY ENCAMPMENT NEWS 7/8/26 EDITION

SUPPORT STAFF HIGHLIGHT

COMMIT

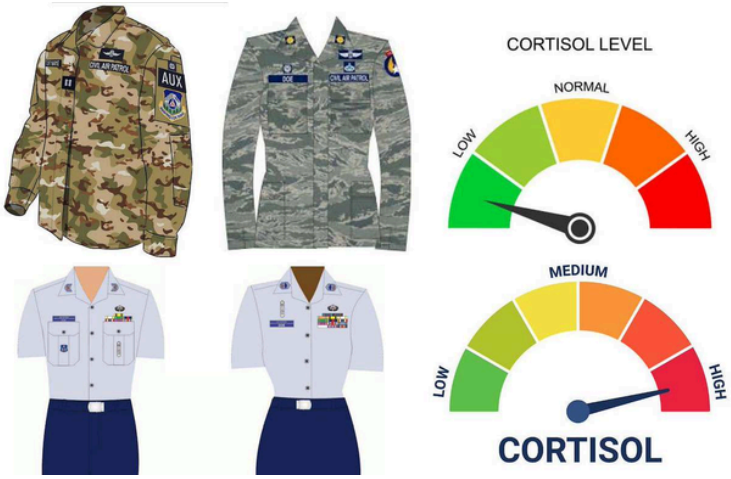

The Communications/IT Team is in charge of all things communication and technology. They ensure that all staff have working radios and wifi for printing certificates, news articles, and much more. Without COMMIT, Encampment would not have many of the things that allow it to keep running. As many have learned, communication is a huge part of forming a team. Without COMMIT, staff wouldn't have the communication. Make sure to give COMMIT a round of applause for being such a pivotal part of the Encampment team.

CONGRATULATIONS TO JULIETTE FLIGHT FOR BEING HONOR FLIGHT OF DAY 4!

C/MAJ SIGMOND

Cadet Major Sigmond is this year's Deputy Commander for ALC. This year's encampment marks her fifth, and her third time staffing. This time with ALC, she's most excited to watch her teams rise to the occasion of the new challenges they'll face this week at Encampment. Despite spending the bulk of her Encampments at ALC, if she could swap jobs with anybody at Encampment, she said C/Maj. Forbis. "I almost think BLC is a greater transformation [than ALC]." Along with this, she also talked about watching students become naturalized to the environment of Encampment, which is mostly seen in BLC. This goes with one thing she always brings to Encampment: morale posters. She said, "I think the important part of starting an institutional culture is having visible reminders of that culture throughout that space." When we asked her what her ideal way to deal with stress is, she said crying. "Like, I'm a crier. I cried at Encampment, and I cried like twice yesterday. And like, it's fine. That's how people deal with it usually - like the regular stress of the day."

CONGRATULATIONS!

YOU'RE HALFWAY THROUGH ENCAMPMENT!

What can you expect coming onto the second half?

So far, you've experienced the basics --the classes, the TLPs, the PT, and the food (which I hope you thank our dining staff for!). You're likely leaving the storming phase of team building and entering the norming phase of the team, the longest phase. The classes, TLPs, PT, food, and more definitely won't end, but what you'll begin doing is applying all the leadership, followership, drill, and more that you've learned so far into various activities, tailored specifically to test your knowledge and capability. When the week nears its end, you'll have earned the privilege of the fun side of Encampment. While we at the Gremlin can't give you too many hints, just know that we (and your parents on Facebook!) will be watching you grow, learn, and then evolve those skills, through the lenses of our cameras.
